TYPEO

RULES, LAWS OF NATURE, GENERAL TRUTHS ETC.

If + Present Simple → Present Simple

- If you heat water to 100 Celsius degrees, it boils.
- If you don't do your homework, you don't get any dessert.

TYPET

POSSIBLE, REAL CONDITION AND RESULT IN THE PRESENT OR FUTURE

If + Present Simple → Present Simple / Future

- If it doesn't rain, we'll go to the park.
- If he manages to buy the tickets, we're going to see the concert on Friday.
- If I find it, I'll tell you.

The speaker feels that there is a real chance that the event in the if clause will happen.

POSSIBLE BUT UNREAL CONDITION AND RESULT IN THE PRESENT OR FUTURE

If + Past Simple → Would [do/go/...]

- If I found a wallet in the street, I'd take it to the police station.
- What would you do if you won a million dollars?
- If there were (was) an election tomorrow, who would you vote for?
- If I were (was) you, I'd talk to him.

The speaker doesn't really expect that the event in the if clause will happen, but it isn't impossible.

- If you took more exercise, you'd feel better.
- I'm not tired. If I went to bed now, I wouldn't sleep.
- If they took a cab, they could be there at 5 o'clock.
- If you read this book, you might be able to pass the exam.

We also use Type 2 to say that if something happens NOW, something else will happen. We use Past Simple but the meaning is present.

We don't normally use would in the if part of the sentence. Exception: we can use would if we politely ask somebody to do something.

• [from a formal letter] I would be grateful if you would let me know your decision as soon as possible.

IMPOSSIBLE, UNREAL CONDITION AND RESULT IN THE PAST

If + Past Perfect → Would have [done/gone/...]

- If I had known you were in hospital, I would have gone to see you.
- If I'd seen you, of course I would have said hello.
- If I hadn't been so tired, I would have gone to the party.
- If the weather hadn't been so bad, we could have gone out.

The events we're talking about are already in the past, so nothing can be done to change them.
